ACADIMIA Online Practitioners' Conference

Shaping the Future of Diverse Classrooms: Creative Methods & Inclusive Learning

Dear Educators, Practitioners, and Partners,

We have the pleasure to invite you to the ACADIMIA Online practitioners' conference – an interactive forum dedicated to bridging the gap between traditional classroom instruction and creative teaching for inclusive education.

Traditional, teacher-centered methods often pose challenges for the successful engagement of the learners, and even more so for integrating students from disadvantaged or multicultural backgrounds. The European teacher academy for creative and inclusive learning ACADIMIA addresses this by unlocking 10 original creative teaching methodologies spanning elements of Drama in Education, Socratic dialectic, Gamification, Creative technologies, Creative STEAM, Maker teaching, Montessori principles and Strength based learning.

This conference brings together practitioners who have championed these methods across our eight project countries to share their experiences, classroom impacts, and insights.

-  Date: 3rd June 2026 (Wednesday)
-  Time: 17–19 CET (2 hours duration)
-  Language: English
-  Platform: Online (Link to be provided upon registration)

What to Expect:

- Insights from the classroom experience: Listen to practitioners from the project countries share successful examples of classroom implementation and evidence of impact in school and higher education contexts.

- Future strategies: Discover upcoming plans for sustaining these innovative practices.
- Stay connected via the CoP: Learn how you can participate in our dedicated ACADIMIA Community of Practice (CoP), a collaborative ecosystem designed for continuous peer learning, resource sharing, and professional networking among teachers and trainers.

Whether you are looking to revitalize your teaching practice or connect with a European network of passionate educators, this event will offer empowering strategies to enrich your lifelong learning journey.
